Parties Favoring Dawes Debt Plan Make Biggest Gain

Socialists, Centrists and Democrats Elect Total of 227 Members

CHANCELLOR IS REELECTED Von Ludendorff's Anti-Semitic Party Wiped Out but Chief Wins

By Associated Press
Berlin — The outcome of yesterday's general elections leaves the parliamentary situation wholly unclarified as the new party lineup in the Reichstag precludes the formation of a three-party coalition composed of Socialists, the Clericals and the Democrats, in the opinion of political leaders.

According to the latest returns these three parties have elected a total of 27 members of the Reichstag and with only this number to depend upon the leaders fear this Liberal combination could be unable to command a dependable majority even if it were given the support of the Bavarian Peoples Party with its 19 votes.

SOCIAL DEMOCRATS GAIN
Strong gains by the Social Democrats, with consequent strengthening of the sections favoring adherence to the Dawes program of reparations, together with the losses for both the extreme right and the left, are features of the returns from Sunday's election.

Provisionally final results, compiled shortly after noon Monday gave the Social Democrats 127 seats, a gain of 9 as compared with last May's election. The Centrists (Clericals) and the German Democratic party the other two Liberal parties represented in the government, not only held their own but each increased its representation by the Centrists by two seats and the Democrats by three.

The standing was: Social Democrats 127 seats; German Nationalists 104, centrist 67; German Peoples party 50, communists 44; German Democrats 41; Bavarian Peoples party 19, extreme nationalists 14; Economic party 10, farmers party 4; Hanseatic party 4; other parties 8. The Bavarian Peoples party added three members to its strength, the German Nationalists 10 and Stresemann's German Peoples party six.

The Communists and extreme Nationalists lost 18 each and General Ludendorff's Chauvinistic anti-Semitic party was practically wiped out.

COMMUNISTS LOSE VOTES
The Socialists, who will enter the new Reichstag as the strongest party, made their gains chiefly at the expense of the Communists while the German Nationalists appear to have picked up the defections from Ludendorff's party.

Among the notables reelected were Chancellor Marx and former Chancellor Schulerkampff, Mueller, Muever, Schulerkampff, Wirth and Stresemann. The German Nationalists reelected Admiral Von Thiele, Prince Otto Von Bismarck, Count Westphal and Count Kergel, while Albert von Graef and Count Von Reventlow, together with Ludendorff himself, survived the collapse of Ludendorff's party.

Count Bernstorff, former ambassador to the United States and Dr. Bernhard Bernburg, were reelected to the Democratic ticket.

Among the women returned are: Elisabeth, Communist; Gertrude Schulerkampff, Dr. Marie Ellbogen, leaders, Democrats, and Frau Minna Ehm, German Nationalist. Dr. Rudolf Hilferding, former minister of finance, and Otto Wels, Socialist party chairman also were returned.

Others elected were Adam Stegerwald, head of the Christian trade union, and former Prussian Premier Anton Hoffmann, the minister of posts, Mark Walther, president of the Reichstag; former Minister of the Interior Kock, Prof. Walther Scheebeck, who was one of Germany's peace delegates at Versailles; Count Hugo Schulerkampff, former Bavarian premier and the Prussian Minister of the Interior Herr Bevering.

FRENCH COMMUNISTS IGNORE EFFORTS OF POLICE AUTHORITIES

Paris — The Communists continue to hold the center of the stage in France, appearing undismayed by the government's repressive measures.

After a meeting at the headquarters of the labor federation Sunday night, a group of radicals formed a procession and marched two miles to the eastern railroad terminus singing the "Internationale."

They were scattered by police.

Another band attended the inauguration of a local soldiers' memorial at St. Ains, a northern suburb of Paris, and drowned the speakers' attempts with cheers for Lenin and the singing of the "Internationale." They were dispersed by police reserves.

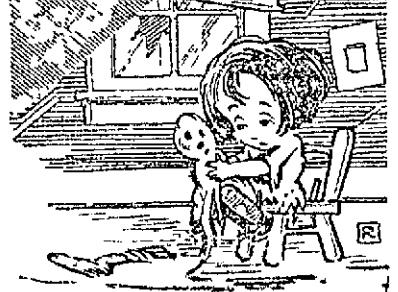

The government is seeking the Communist leader, Henry Gillbeaux, condemned to death by default in 1919, under circumstances similar to those in the case of Jacques Sadoul who was arrested recently.

Orders have been given for the police and customs officers to search all trains entering France and if necessary to patrol the frontier road.

FARM SITUATION SHOWS BIG GAIN, ANNUAL REPORT

Outstanding Event Is Wheat Situation of Year, Late Secretary Writes

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—American agriculture, on the whole, occupies the best position it has held since 1920 but much further recovery is required to bring it back to its pre-war condition, the agriculture department informed President Coolidge Monday in its annual report. The report was prepared by the late Henry C. Wallace and embodies his views, but was signed and presented by the present secretary, Howard M. Gore, who was assistant secretary under Mr. Wallace.

The outstanding event in the agricultural history of 1924 has been the wheat situation, the report said. Apparent surpluses of bread grains have been much reduced, and the world's crop promises to be between 800,000,000 and 850,000,000 bushels below that of last year. Exportable surplus in the principal producing countries have been reduced and requirements of the United States should be stronger than it was last year. Wheat promises large yields per acre, and a total crop larger than that of last year is expected on a reduced acreage. Reduced yields in foreign countries have brought about a market situation in which the American farmers are receiving higher prices for a larger crop. Nevertheless, the rise in the price of wheat has not yet sufficed to give a bushel of wheat its pre-war purchasing power. While the wheat situation has greatly improved it has not yet reached a point where farmers should think no further readjustments are necessary. It would be a mistake to suppose that the wheat acreage may again be expanded with the expectation of high prices.

FIND AGED GREEN BAY PAIR DEAD OF COAL GAS

By Associated Press
Green Bay—Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Zophre, 73 and 80 years old respectively, were found dead in bed early Monday morning by a neighbor who forced his way into the house after he became suspicious that something had happened to the aged couple, when they failed to make an appearance all day Sunday. The kitchen and the bedroom adjoining were filled with coal gas. Physicians who examined the remains of the couple, said that death apparently resulted from asphyxiation more than 36 hours before the bodies were discovered.

FRENCH DEBT MAIN ITEM ON U. S. PROGRAM

Great Britain Watches Refunding Negotiations with Eager Eyes

AVOID DISCRIMINATION Coolidge Voices Theory France Is Less Able to Pay Than England

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1924 by The Post Pub. Co.
Washington, D. C.—The most immediate question of foreign policy confronting the United States government is neither the world court nor the league of nations, but what shall be done about refunding the debt of France.

This is of concern to the whole European continent and of particular concern to Great Britain. The situation has become so interwoven with the settlements already made and with the general economic problems of Europe growing out of the Dawes reparation plan that the helmsman of the American ship of state will have to steer cautiously in the next 12 months to avoid interruption of friendly relations with any of the powers and yet collect the debts due.

The bill collector is never popular whether the case be a nation or an individual and nothing seems so intangible as the money which went up in the smoke of the battlefield and into the pockets of the munition makers of a few years ago.

AMERICA GOT PROFIT
Ambassador Jusserand's speech in New York reminding his hearers that this was spent in America all but one sixth of the three billions borrowed from the United States during the war, is significant of what France is thinking because it will be noted that a few days ago M. Jusserand began formal conversation with the Washington government on the refunding of the French debt.

M. Jusserand speaks also of the great sacrifices in blood and treasure made by France and of the vast sums she herself had lent to the other allies and which have not been repaid. He is referring to the unpaid Russian debt as well as the debts due from the other European countries.

Meanwhile Great Britain has begun to exhibit a lively French discussion of war debts. Stanley Baldwin who happens to be premier of Great Britain was the man who negotiated the debt settlement between America and England. He was criticized severely for the terms he made. It was called a hard bargain by many British publicists and the era of unemployment under which Great Britain has been suffering, together with the burdens of taxation have not lessened the criticism.

U. S. VICE CONSUL DIES OF WOUNDS

Veil of Mystery Surrounds Shooting of Official by Lithuanian Woman

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—The death of Vice Consul Henry A. Dayton, shot several days ago in Belgrade, was reported Monday to the state department.

Mr. Dayton was first reported to have been shot by a young woman who afterwards committed suicide. No details of the tragedy, however, have been reported by Consul Patton, in charge of the Belgrade post. Late press advices have tended to throw a veil of mystery over the shooting in which Dayton was shot as well as the death of the young woman Dayton, it was said by the police, was shot from behind. The state department has sent instructions to Consul Patton to make a complete investigation and report to the department as soon as practicable.

Presumably the body of vice Consul Dayton will be returned to the United States for burial. Relatives have been advised of the death and plans will be governed by their wishes.

The gasoline engine backfired and the craft burned to the water's edge in mid-channel. Other water taxis and shore boats rescued the men. They were reported to be 35 fleet sailors and two operators on the civilian craft when the fire occurred. The LaMoyna had been in service for less than a week and was valued at $12,000.

EXPECT NEW CLEW MAY REVEAL NAME OF 'MYSTERY' GIRL

Indianapolis Attorney Recognizes Photograph as Former Client

Indianapolis, Ind.—The cloak of mystery surrounding "Charlotte Norris," girl amnesia victim held for study in a Chicago psychopathic hospital may be torn away as a result of information supplied Monday by John A. Edwards, Indianapolis attorney.

The Indianapolis clue to the identity of "Charlotte Norris," the girl with the forgotten past, developed when a photograph recently appeared in a local newspaper. Mr. Edwards, after studying the features of "Charlotte Norris," expressed the positive opinion that she was the same girl whom he had represented in a police court case here not long ago. Mr. Edwards said the girl was Mrs. Ethel Smith, Bloomington, Ind. She gave her age as 18 at that time, Mr. Edwards said.

A degree of mystery surrounded the appearance of Mrs. Ethel Smith in the local court. She first became entangled in the meshes of the law at the same time as Owen McKibben, said to be the son of a mayor of an Ohio town. She was allowed to go and a short time later "Charlotte Norris" bobbed up in Chicago.

James W. Ramagge, father of Mrs. Ethel Smith, declared Monday he did not know where his daughter was but thought she had gone to Chicago from Columbus, O. Mrs. Ethel Smith and her husband are separated.

The nomination has also included reappointment of Harry L. Fidler of Indiana and Edward T. Franks of Kentucky. Walter V. Wilde was nominated as collector of customs at Milwaukee.

B. F. to Harry F. Sinclair. Oiler pleaded privileges and claimed a defective memory.

CREAM CITY BANK LOOTED IN DAYLIGHT

Six Bandits Take $10,000 in Cash and $300,000 in Bonds, Estimate

By Associated Press
Milwaukee—Six robbers entered the Northwestern National bank here shortly after 10 a. m. held up the cashier and escaped with $10,000 in cash and bonds estimated at $300,000. Harry A. Dugman, cashier, was struck over the ear by one of the robbers and knocked unconscious when he attempted to resist the robbers. Three other tellers on duty at the time were covered by pistols. Three customers were in the bank when the robbery occurred, two girls and a man, but none was molested.

The institution is located in the outlying section of the city, and considerable time elapsed after the robbers departed before the police took up their trail.

According to early versions of the robbery, which is one of the few bank robberies in Milwaukee's history, six robbers were in the party. Five entered the bank, leveled pistols at the employees and ordered them to turn over the cash.

Dugman attempted to reach for the police alarm and was knocked unconscious. The other employees were lined up against the wall by three of the robbers, while one covered the customers and two others searched hurriedly for the cash and securities.

One of the party sat in an automobile parked at the entrance of the bank, with the motor running ready for a fast start, when his companions came out.

There was little confusion in connection with the robbery, and those in the shops nearby were not aware that a robbery had occurred until the police arrived.

Bank officials said shortly before 11:30 they had been unable to check up the nature of the securities obtained by the robbers. Although the amount of the securities taken is estimated at $300,000, bank officials were of the opinion that only a part of this amount could be realized because of the non-negotiable character of a considerable portion of the papers.

Police announced that the robbers are believed to be on their way to Chicago where police are guarding all incoming roads.

Chicago—Police here took precautions Monday to watch the roads from Milwaukee in a search for the robbers who held up the Northwestern National bank in the Wisconsin city and escaped with $10,000 cash and a reported $300,000 in bonds. Chief of Police Collins ordered a watch for the holdup men after receiving a message from the Milwaukee police.

HERO OF SCREEN PAINFULLY HURT IN CAR COLLISION

Girl in Second Car Also Seriously Hurt When Autos Collide

By Associated Press
Dixon, Ill.—J. Warren Kerrigan, "moving picture hero" with a party of friends, figured in an automobile accident near here Monday morning. Kerrigan was the only member of the party to be injured and was taken to the Dixon hospital. A young woman in the second car is near death from injuries.

Kerrigan was returning to Chicago from Sterling where he appeared accompanied by Herbert C. Frank, Miss Hazel Hamel, Frank Gobring and James Vincent, the latter the star's secretary.

Driving in a heavy fog five miles south of Dixon their car collided with a machine occupied by Miss Alma Rockwood, her brother Nathan, Harold Hicks and Miss Edith Reed all of Amboy.

Kerrigan was thrown through a glass window of the sedan, receiving a deep gash over the left eye, extending from the hair to the eyebrows, numerous minor cuts and painful bruises.

He was taken to a hotel from the hospital Monday morning and later continued his trip to Chicago by train. He was the only one in his party injured.

Miss Rockwood of Amboy was more seriously injured. She was badly cut about the face, broken glass penetrating the rear duct of the left eye and it was feared Monday morning she was internally injured.

U. S. Must Build Up Aircraft, Is Board's Report

Government Urges at Least Nucleus Sufficient for War Needs

COOLIDGE READS MESSAGE

Four Moves Suggested to Congress to Stimulate Industry in America

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Lack of an adequate aircraft industry is a matter of grave concern for the government. It is the judgement of the national advisory committee for aeronautics expressed in its annual report transmitted to congress Monday by President Coolidge.

The government is concerned that there should be at least "an adequate nucleus" capable of rapid expansion to meet war needs, the report continued. To that end it recommended steps to remedy substantially "the existing bad condition" but declared that proposals either to increase the volume of government orders for aircraft or to allot such orders without regard to competitive bidding would not meet the necessity.

The committee suggested four moves to produce the necessary types of aircraft at reduced cost—also to assure manufacturers of adequate peacetime markets. The steps to be taken by the air craft builders were to readjust plants to a peace time basis immediately, and for specialization in particular types of ships with a view to "gradual recognition of proprietary rights to new designs."

Those suggested for the government were to fix a balanced production program for the army, navy and post-office will have needs and types made known a year in advance and to place orders for different types at "such intervals as to insure continuity of production and the gradual development of special facilities and skill by each manufacturer in the production of a given type of aircraft."

AIR MAIL IMPORTANT
While the air mail service, particularly with its present efforts toward night flying, was classed as "the most important development in aviation today" so far as stimulating development of commercial aviation goes, the report pointed out that the chief reason for faster commercial flying progress in Europe was a military consideration.

As general recommendations the board suggested the continuous prosecution of scientific research work, continuation of the air mail service under the postoffice department with the ground outposts for night flying New York to San Francisco, steps to increase the reliability and economy of operation of commercial aircraft with reasonable regulation of fliers and flying fields and necessary aids to navigation along designated national airways. Continued study of the air defense problem and continued support of aviation development in the army and navy.

In transmitting the report, President Coolidge concurred in the general recommendations and agreed "that in the law analysis substantial progress in aviation is dependent upon the continuous prosecution of scientific research."

J. Warren Kerrigan, "moving picture hero," has been injured in an automobile accident in which he received a deep gash on his forehead. A young woman occupying the second car was hurt more severely, probably internally.

FARMER OF WISCONSIN STARTED COOPERATIVE CHEESE FACTORY, CLAIM

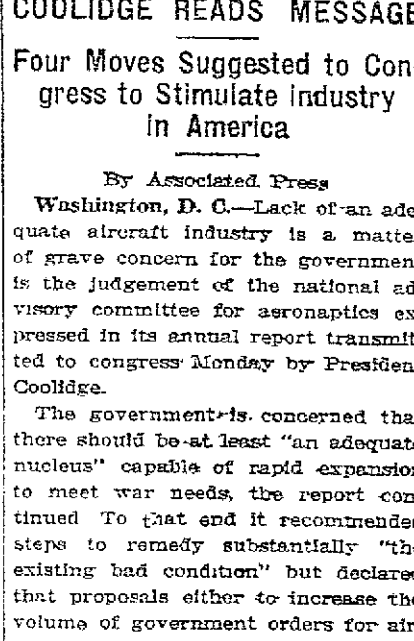

Washington, D. C.—A Wisconsin farmer who in 1911 persuaded others in his neighborhood to turn over to him their surplus milk to be made into cheese for the benefit of all, is believed to have been one of the first to launch a cooperative enterprise. The department of agriculture related this incident in a survey made public, which showed that 70 per cent of all cooperative cheese factories in the country are in Wisconsin.

The oldest living organization reporting to the department is the Co-operative cheese factory at Fond du Lac, which was formed in 1883.

Oregon is second in the list but has only one establishment in any association as Wisconsin. New York is third.

The survey developed that 35 per cent of the factories handle business amounting to $100,000 each.

RURAL MAILMEN GET CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY

For the second time in history Appleton rural mail carriers, with mail carriers in the service the country over, will enjoy a full Christmas holiday. The holiday was granted the rural mail men last year by the postal department as an experiment. No complaints resulted from this arrangement. On the contrary, many of the patrons congratulated the carriers on the fact that they were at liberty to enjoy the holiday with the rest of the world. Mailers should take note of the announcement that there will be no rural delivery on Christmas so that they will be at the office of delivery at least three or four days before Christmas. It was pointed out at the Appleton postoffice.

Secretary of State Will Help

Record of Cars

Identification of automobile owners will be greatly facilitated next year by an arrangement consented to by Fred R. Zimmermann, secretary of state, whereby the principal cities of the state will receive daily reports on new automobile licenses issued.

This arrangement was made as a result of a conference between the secretary of state and a committee of police chiefs consisting of George T. Prim, Appleton, president of the state association of chiefs, A. E. Gabbert of Oshkosh and Thomas Shaughnessy of Madison.

Just as fast as the license plates are sent to the owners, the state department will mail out copies for the benefit of police. The following cities will receive daily reports: Milwaukee, Eau Claire, La Crosse, Superior, Wausau, Racine, Oshkosh and Appleton.

Chief Prim will inform all police departments in the state of this arrangement and advise them to make use of the nearest office obtaining the daily reports. This is one of the subjects taken up at the recent convention of police chiefs.

WATERWORKS PAID $19,190 TO CITY IN LAST 10 MONTHS

General Fund Increased Materially by Water Department Earnings

The city general fund has been credited with a total of $19,190.38 for the first ten months of the year by the Appleton waterworks, the dividends for the month of October alone being $2,099.74.

Operating revenue for the period of Jan. 1 to Nov. 1 amounted to $99,589.99, while that for October totaled $10,570.76, according to the water department accountant's monthly financial report.

After deducting operating expenses the department still had a net operating profit of $4,537.32 for October, and $38,920.34 for the ten month period. With further deductions allowed for taxes, depreciation reserves, interest on funded debt and 5 per cent dividends to the city, the department was able to show a net profit of $1,202.42 for October and a net profit of $8,440.93 for the first ten months of the year.

The interest on the funded debt is decreasing from year to year, as instalments on bond principals are being paid off by the city, but for every dollar spent by the city either in paying money of principal or in additions to the plant the city draws more money on the city equity in the plant.

THE CREDITOR NATION

Wall street observes that the United States is lending Europe an average of one billion dollars a year, and it is looking over the situation to find out what Europe's financial needs of the next year or two are likely to be. The 1925 demand for money will be considerably in excess of one billion dollars. Asia and South America doubtless will absorb a considerable quantity of our surplus capital. Africa, perhaps, will take some money from us.

When we say that Europe borrows money from us we think usually that the capital goes to the governments. Many of the loans are, of course, public. But private loans for commercial purposes, and industrial development exceed the public.

Modernization of business and development of natural resources in South America and Asia in the next few years will stimulate the demand for American capital. Our capital will not only be lent abroad, but it will also be invested in commercial, industrial and public service enterprises in all parts of the world.

Transportation and communication will awaken enterprise in one land after another. They are the builders of trade and fore-runners of material progress. The airplane and the radio will have enlivening effects. All parts of the world will be on speaking and visiting terms. The steamship, railroad, automobile, telephone and telegraph will hasten internal progress.

As the foremost creditor nation, having more capital than we know what to do with, this favorable condition pleases us. We may place our capital where we will and choose our investments. Profits are larger in foreign fields and the prospect of large gain is an attraction that will take an enormous volume of capital from our storehouse. We can spare a vast amount of money. There is, in truth, no limit to what we can spare. A billion dollars a year is a small matter relatively.

CALLES AND OBREGON

Calles, the new president of Mexico, is a different type of man from Obregon, his predecessor. Obregon was a soldier; Calles is a student. Obregon is a shrewd observer of men; Calles is more interested in problems. Obregon used force to back up his sagacity. Calles, we may expect, will experiment with political and economic theories and will attempt to be humanitarian.

Obregon never in his life took much stock in ideals. He has always been rough and ready, and probably more often wrong than right in his judgments and convictions. Calles has many ideals, and his faith and energy are such that he will be firm in adopting them and trying them out.

It looks as if the nation that has been accustomed to fighting for the interests of leaders will take to vigorous debate over issues. Although a student and idealist, Calles is a general, too. He has as much faith in guns and commands as in theories, and that is a good combination.

LINCOLN'S STYLE

Nothing could be farther from the truth, according to Prof. Daniel Kilham Dodge, of the University of Illinois, than the prevailing belief that Abraham Lincoln's mastery of the English language was a natural endowment. "We have abundant evidence," he says, "both internal and external, that Lincoln's success in writing and speaking, as in the practice of law, was the result of constant effort."

The immortal Gettysburg address, Prof. Dodge reminds us, was prepared with great care. The finished work he compares with the crude extemporaneous address which Lincoln made on the previous evening to a serenading party. There is ample proof besides this that Lincoln could not and did not write or speak easily or with literary style.

Prof. Dodge classifies Lincoln as a progressive student of English, and the final attainment of polish was the result both of self-criticism and patient effort. It was only after years of study and practice that Lincoln became a finished speaker and writer. "But this defect (self-criticism)" says Prof. Dodge, "also had its advantages, and it is to a great extent responsible for his later complete mastery of the spoken word. It contributed to making Lincoln a progressive artist, advancing step by step from the crude 'communication' of 1832 through the rather sophomoric efforts of the late thirties and early forties, and the more restrained speeches of the fifties, to the mark of high literary distinction of the Cooper Institution address, the two Inaugurals and the Gettysburg address."

Lincoln's serious experience contributed much, no doubt, to the development of his clear, direct, simple, thoroughly human style. Simplicity of language comes from experience and broad, profound thinking and feeling. Large words suit well in scientific writings, where they bring out particular meanings and technical distinctions, but in literary work they mar beauty of style. The Gettysburg address is a perfect example of perfect English adopted to a great theme. It is one of the simplest of the classics, yet it was the culmination of a life of patient and persevering application.

NO CUT IN WAGES

There is good, sound common sense to President Coolidge's announcement that he does not want the wages of railroad employees cut in order to bring reduction of rates. If, he says, reduction of rates is made at this time, it should be effected by other economies of operation.

Such rate changes as may be necessary can be realized by equalization of costs. Some traffic, for instance, may be handled at cost in order to build more traffic. Whatever fall might occur in gross revenue would be counter-balanced by increase in the net.

It would be unwise to cut wages. Transportation statistics show that the tonnage is large. No considerable decrease of rates is necessary to stimulate commerce, but there are some commodities which are entitled to lower rates.

PRACTICING.

THE neighborhood's quiet, and then comes a note, a rattle, a clatter and din. Your peace has departed when someone is started to play on a new violin.

Like a series of pains come the practice strains, as the sound from the next door travels fast. It comes like a streak, does the violin squeak, and you wonder how long it will last.

And then while you're troubled, your trouble is doubled, as someone's sweet voice is rehearsed. Soon the warble and shout draws the violin out, and you wonder which music is worst.

A sour-note piano; a would-be soprano. Treble join and a lullaby croon. The music is sad, which in slang-phrase means bad, for the song seems away out of tune.

It over was thus and it's useless to fret 'cause it's bound to be always that way. The music will roar when you're living next door to some neighbors who practice all day.

HOW TO DEVELOP HEMORRHOIDS.

Hemorrhoids or piles are varicose veins. Evolution, fatigue posture (particularly in sitting), and lack of physical education are three contributing causes of varicose veins in general and hemorrhoids in particular. In an earlier talk I explained how the valveless hemorrhoidal veins drain directly into the valveless portal veins and thus anything that brings about portal congestion or engorgement of the liver tends to bring on piles.

Excessive eating, the habit of eating too fast, which necessarily means gulping down unmastered food like a hog or dog, insures such engorgement of the liver. But the hog has an advantage over man in the matter of position. The hog does his digesting in the horizontal position chiefly. The dog is in a better position to digest his food than his master is, and the dog can digest even larger chunks of meat as he gulps them down unmasticated. Even civilized man may make up time, if he is late for something, by gulping his meat down as fast as he can. But the other forms of food—cereals, vegetables and fruits—too much mastication is practically impossible. Study the cow, and remember she has an additional advantage over man, for on her second thought she chews her cud. Here I must give credit where credit is due: The skillful American dentist contributes greatly toward prevention of piles when he rehabilitates broken down masticating machinery.

Another common error which predisposes to hemorrhoids in a similar manner is the abuse of condiments. Just what constitutes the abuse of condiments is a question of opinion, and the opinions differ about this, just as they do about what constitutes good health. If the ordinary conception of good health is accepted as a criterion, then there is a reasonable allowance of radish of pepper, mustard, vinegar, cloves, ginger, peppermint and other substances which have no food value but impart zest or flavor or disguise the natural taste of the food. If the ideal 100 per cent health standard is taken as the criterion instead of this 70 per cent condition which ordinarily passes as good health, then none of these condiments should be used in or on food. As a general observation, the quality of food and the character of the cooking, this applies to the restaurant and the home as well as the hot dog stand. If the palate requires tickling, if the taste or appetite requires stimulation, if the digestion requires a fillip, there is a wide choice of natural foods sufficient unto the purpose. It is a vicious and fatal practice exciting the digestive function with these drugs called condiments and then overloading with impure or unnecessary food. Piles are the least of the harm done by the abuse of condiments.

Associated in character with the abuse of condiments as a predisposing cause of hemorrhoids is the widespread phlegm habit, and particularly the indiscriminate use of so called "vegetable" or "herb" cathartics or laxatives in the vain belief that constiveness or constipation may be prevented or cured by such practices. Great many of the drugs contained in "herb" or "vegetable" or "herb" and used in concocting popular laxative nostrums, maintain a chronic congestion of the hemorrhoidal veins.

Unique Surgery
Rescues Things
Folks Swallow

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—Some of the most popular spectacular feats of surgery imaginable are performed in the bronchoscopic clinic at Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia. To the clinic come babies who have an appetite for safety pins; elderly gentlemen whose false teeth somehow slide down into inaccessible regions; patients who have swallowed fish bones, collar buttons, keys, money, marbles, poison, and other strange and unwholesome things.

Less dramatic, but equally interesting, are the sufferers from bronchial afflictions who come to have their inner tubes inspected and overhauled. Dr. Chevalier Jackson, who is in charge, is one of the outstanding authorities on bronchial conditions, and his clinic represents the most up-to-date methods known.

It is not so long ago that the medical man's way of investigating bronchitis and obstructions in the chest was to place a stethoscope over the patient's chest and to listen learnedly to the peculiar sounds inside. He had other tests but they were all indirect like this. Now, it is possible to take a look at the bronchial tube, not only by x-ray, but as directly as if it were possible literally to get inside of the tubes.

A bronchial patient who visited the Philadelphia clinic reports that the usual general examination with a stethoscope is first made by three separate doctors. Then x-ray pictures of the chest are taken, and blood tests are made to detect the presence of tuberculosis or other dangerous elements. Then the patient comes to the test of the "lights."

His throat is treated with a local anesthetic, and he reclines on a couch surrounded by the clinic doctor and assistants. He is told to open his mouth and to breathe fully. After that the doctor puts something which feels like an arm down the patient's throat. This is really a bronchoscope, a tube about the size of a thumb in diameter. It has in it tiny electric lighting apparatus and magnifying glasses so arranged that the examiner can look down and see the exact condition of the main bronchial tubes—the pipes which carry air to the lungs.

The inserted tube is decidedly a painful one, and the patient at first feels suffocated. But the tube has a breathing hole, and as soon as the patient adjusts himself to this, he breathes more or less naturally. The tube is raised and lowered as the doctor explores the cavity with his tiny light. When it is removed, he knows exactly what the disease has done to the throat and the lining of the bronchial tubes.

USE UNIQUE TUBES

Dr. Jackson and his assistants use a number of different tube-like instruments, some of which he has devised himself. In the case of a person who has swallowed some foreign body, the doctor looks down the throat by means of a light in a tube, and after he has located the obstruction he carefully withdraws it by means of a tube equipped with a tiny pair of forceps or by suction.

Generally, the operations are not so simple as that sounds. There are comparatively few surgeons in the country who attempt them. One case which came to the bronchoscopic clinic was that of a nine-month-old baby suffering presumably from a safety pin in its throat. X-ray examination showed that four safety pins, all large and all open, were lodged in the esophagus, the tube through which the food passes from the mouth to the stomach. The pins were interlocked and tangled in a bit of wool, so that the surgeon tried to draw one pin up into the mouth of his probing

TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS TO WEAR

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

"Tant Alle of Transvaal"

"Tant" Alle of Transvaal has not yet made much of a stir in America so far as I have been able to discover. A few of the more discriminating magazines gave it favorable notices when it was published in England a few months ago, but since that type of magazine is never read by the large public the great mass of people in this country are still completely ignorant of the fact that such a book exists.

But it is altogether likely that "Tant" Alle will some day be about as famous as "The Story of an African Farm." In fact, Olive Schreiner, who read it in manuscript, said of it shortly before her death, "I think it is wonderful," and she promised to tube, the points of the other pins would have torn the baby's throat.

Finally, the two lower pins were guided, one at a time, down into the baby's stomach—the doctors watching them all the way by means of lighted tubes. These pins passed safely into the intestinal tract. The two larger and stiffer pins were drawn up into the child's mouth by forceps and other instruments, and the child was soon discharged as cured.

Dr. L. H. Clerf of the bronchoscopic clinic reported on 40 cases in which teeth and dental materials had been swallowed into the esophagus or had been sucked into the windpipe and its branching bronchial tubes by breathing. In 12 of the cases artificial dentures containing from one tooth to almost a full set were extracted from the air and food passages of sufferers. These comparatively large articles slipped down the throats of individuals who were sleeping, eating under an anesthetic, or suffering from epileptic seizures. In a larger number of the dental cases a single false or natural tooth was inhaled into the windpipe or swallowed.

write a preface for the book but this was prevented by her death.

Alle Badenhorst was a Boer woman who lived with her husband on the veld in Transvaal when Boer war broke out. Naturally the husband went to war and during one of the early battles he was taken prisoner and sent to a camp where he was confined with several thousand others during the rest of the conflict. Alle Badenhorst and her children were left to struggle with the work of the large farm.

WAS THRILLING DIARY

But worse was to come. She and her children and her neighbors' friends were driven by the English into one of the concentration camps where they faced death and hardship almost every day. As one method of bearing up under the ordeal Alle Badenhorst began to write her diary. She rapidly sketched the story of her life up to the time of the Boer war, emphasizing the happiness and contentment of the Boers, their love of freedom, and then she gives the day by day story of the concentration camp—the story of death, disease, cruelty, horror, tyranny. He seeped through to the world about the horror of the concentration camps, horrified humane people everywhere at the time, but "Tant" Alle's show that only a very little of the true state of affairs leaked out at the time.

The diary of this Boer woman was written in the "Taal," which is the Dutch language as it has developed in South Africa. It has become a literary language and is no longer regarded as a dialect. Emily Hobhouse, an English nurse, who was in contact with Alle Badenhorst after the war and she describes her as "small, fragile and sadly invalided, a woman with force of character and rare spiritual qualities." The Boer woman committed her journal into Miss Hobhouse's care at the time of her death in 1908 and Miss Hobhouse, working painstakingly over the task of translating it into English.

WAR KEPT IT UNPRINTED

She was ready to publish it in 1919 just when the World war broke out and made publication impossible. The book is such a terrific indictment of the methods of the English in the Transvaal that anyone publishing during the World war would have been regarded as a traitor and might have been shot at sunrise by the military authorities. The Boer war on a cloud over the last years of Queen Victoria and well it might; the simple narrative of Alle Badenhorst makes the imperialistic clatter of the Klippings of this world somewhat that genuinely humane people mutely for the suppressed, oppressed or conquered peoples of the earth.

There was little chance for the book during the years immediately after the World war and Miss Hobhouse wisely waited until this year before giving the volume to the public. And it raises one's respect for the temper of the English people if such a book could in the first place find a publisher in England and then in the second place it could find sympathetic readers. I doubt whether a similar book written by an anti-Filipino about the America could be published here. Mark Twain, savagely condemning Gen. Funston's course in the Philippines but he not express it publicly, knowing that American public would not accept. He said it in his secret diary which was not published until this year, years after his death.

Mr. Menzner made a plea for more active Christianity, believing that it is not right for one to condemn religion before he has tried it.

"Religion is not a theory; it is a fellowship with life, with God himself," he declared. Religion can "find a way out" of any difficulty, the pastor said.

City Shows Big Interest In Clavilux

Clavilux, the organ of light that will be presented by Thomas Wilfred, its inventor, in Lawrence Memorial chapel Wednesday night, is a special treat for the deaf, for it has been called "music for the eyes." The Appleton Women's club, which is bringing the clavilux to Appleton, expects that the chapel will be well filled Wednesday night, for the interest and curiosity of many people has been aroused.

It is of special interest to know that Dr. Samuel Plantz, late president of Lawrence college, was interested in the clavilux and had planned to attend the recital here. It is said that he remarked he had long wanted to see it when the women approached him in regard to the use of the chapel and organ.

SCHER CARVES SPLENDID PEDESTAL FOR FLOOR LAMP

Unusual among the many brilliant Christmas displays in Appleton is a large floor lamp carved out of a solid block of wood, and with a screen, both executed by William Scherer, 895 Prospect-st. now on display in the window of the Meyer-Seeger music shop.

Mr. Scherer's business is the decoration of churches, but his hobby is woodcarving and many an object of beauty has emerged from under his hands since he began to carve. On a massive pedestal are a mother and child walking in the shade of a tree which shelters in its branches an owl and the light. The whole intricate mass of carving is bronzed to give the appearance of a metal casting. It required many months of Mr. Scherer's leisure to execute, but the result is well worth the time.

The screen consists of two panels portraying Rococo scenes done in oils.

Invite D.A.R. To Exhibit Of Handwork

Word has been received by the Appleton chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution that an exhibit of the exquisite handwork by Kentucky mountaineers for the department of furs and industries of Berea School, Kentucky, will be held in Oshkosh on Dec. 12 and 13. The exhibit will be at the museum in the Sawyer foundation, under the sponsorship of the Oshkosh chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Appleton members are invited to attend the exhibit.

Mrs. William C. Gamble, who is one of the Oshkosh women instrumental in bringing these articles to this part of the country, has a wealth of information about these "kivers" of handloomed work, because she and her husband were for many years connected with Berea school, an old Kentucky mission school, established in 1853. The mountain people took their handwoven quilts and fancy work to the school to pay for their "book learnin'" and Mr. Gamble accepted them in lieu of cash, without thinking any use could be made of them. However, he took them with him through the east, and they were so enthusiastically received that the demand for them has made a steady business for the mountaineers, and has added a new dignity and prosperity to their isolated cabins in the mountains.

A lecture on the subject will be given at 8 o'clock Friday evening in the Oshkosh high school. The board of management of the Appleton chapter will meet Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Carrie Morgan, 612 Green Bay-st., to discuss the Christmas party.

REDS WANT TITLE TO HOLY LAND CHURCHES

Jerusalem—As mandatory power for Palestine, Great Britain probably will be called upon soon to decide whether title to the vast properties of the Russian Church in this country shall go to the Soviet governments, or to Russian Church interests outside of Russia.

The controversy involves hundreds of thousands of dollars of property in Jerusalem and vicinity, as well as in Bethlehem, Nazareth and Haifa, consisting of churches, monasteries, hospices, parks and other valuable plots of land. One of the churches is in the Garden of Gethsemane and another on the Mount of Olives.

The Metropolitan Antonin, head of the Holy Russian Synod in Palestine, has arrived here in connection with the case. He is an announced czarist and believes his faction will secure title to these holdings.

In connection with the Soviet's claim, the interesting question arises whether the Soviet can divorce the church from the state and yet claim property belonging to the church.

The Public is Invited

It Happens Every Day

When the days are getting shorter and the evenings longer and there are lots of times after supper, when you don't feel like reading or going out to the movies—

But you don't know just what to do to amuse yourself and after you try a game or two of solitaire and write a letter, you still feel sort of restless—

And then, from across the street, you hear the strains of a talking machine—and all of a sudden you realize that what you've been wanting is music—

And you wish you'd taken violin or mandolin or harmonica or any sort of music lessons or that you had enough money to buy yourself a talking machine and some snappy records—

And then you turn to The POST-CRESCENT'S classified section and you see an ad about a small-size talking machine, "with a good assortment of recent records" offered for sale at a price you feel you can easily afford—

And you step right out and buy it and so you're all set for a long and pleasant series of winter evenings—

That Puts the Joy Back Into Life!

WELFARE COUNCIL ALL SET TO RAISE MONEY FOR NEEDY

Stronger Good Fellows Club Is
Aim of Reorganized Relief Workers

Organization of Appleton Welfare council to take charge of an annual campaign to raise money to carry on relief work in Appleton has been completed. The council's bylaws have been amended to provide that the council shall include representatives from the City Relief Society, Jewish Ladies Aid society, Ladies Auxiliary of the Catholic Order of Foresters, Salvation Army, German Ladies Aid society, Appleton Womens club and city of Appleton. Appleton Rotary club, Appleton Lions club and Appleton Kiwanis club. This council will have a general supervision of the work of raising the money for welfare work but the relief organizations will function as they have, independent of each other.

JELANGER PRESIDENT

F. N. Jelanger has been elected president of the association and will direct the work of raising the budget of $8,000 which has been adopted. Other officers of the council are Roy Marshall, vice president; Mrs. L. J. Marshall, secretary; Dr. M. H. Small, treasurer. Directors are two representatives from each of the affiliated organizations.

Actual raising of the funds will be by the three luncheon clubs in cooperation with the Appleton Post-Crescent. Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 17 and 18, have been designated as the campaign days and members of the clubs have been asked to give two hours of their time on one of the days for this work.

EVERYONE CAN HELP

An effort will be made to cover a large part of the city in this drive but it will be impossible to see every one in the short time at the disposal of the men. Subscriptions will be received until Christmas from those who were not seen.

The Good Fellows club will be organized as usual and every person who gives to help the needy will be enrolled in the club. The reason for the personal solicitation is because the voluntary giving of the last few years was not sufficient to meet the needs of the city's poor. About $8,000 is required to feed and clothe the unfortunate who are unable to help themselves and the Good Fellows club raised about only half of that amount.

CAR HITS CULVERT AND TWO YOUNG MEN LAND IN HOSPITAL

Machine Rams Concrete Post
on Highway 15—Injuries
Not Serious

Neenah—Two young men, Alvin Terns, route 9, Neenah, and Henry Bice, route 10, Oshkosh, are in the Clark hospital in this city as a result of an auto accident early Sunday morning. They had been in Oshkosh to spend a few hours and were on their way home. When about two miles south of Gillingham's corner, on route 15, the car in which they were riding struck a cement guard on a culvert. The car and occupants overturned into a ditch beside the road. They laid there until a car in which Henry Otto, Menasha, and George Miller, Neenah, were also riding, turned from Oshkosh, came along and picked them up. Bick was unconscious and remained in that state until after he had reached the hospital. An examination showed that neither of the young men suffered serious injuries outside of being scratched and bruised by flying glass. No bones were broken. They were returned to their homes Monday.

A New High Water Mark For Wisconsin's Fastest Growing Daily Newspaper

The Daily Average Net Paid Circulation of The Post-Crescent For The Month of November Was

This New Circulation Record Represents A Growth Over The Combined Circulations of The Former Appleton Daily Post and The Evening Crescent As Indicated By Their Circulation Figures for The Last Quarter of 1919, Totaling 7,249, of

67%

A growth of 67% in circulation during a five year period is, we believe, unprecedented and without parallel in the history of Wisconsin Journalism. Surely no other Wisconsin Daily Newspaper can boast of such a gain during the past five years. We believe the Post-Crescent has an undisputed claim to being

"Wisconsin's Fastest Growing Daily Newspaper"

And There Is Nothing Flimsy About This Growth

Nothing Unstable or Accidental. It is circulation built upon the solid, substantial foundation of MERIT and ENTERPRISE. This growth is the reflection of the appreciation of the policy of the Post-Crescent in giving this community a live, wide-a-woke newspaper—the best possible newspaper within the power of an organization of sixty trained newspaper workers. The thorough news coverage; local, state and nation and the varied and popular features are mainly responsible for the wide popularity of the Post Crescent.

A Word of Interest to Progressive Appleton Merchants

And best of all, this increased circulation is practically all in the trading territory of Appleton merchants. Advertisers in the Post-Crescent have had their trading territory widened 67 per cent in the past five years, for every subscriber added to the Post-Crescent list is an added prospective customer of progressive Appleton merchants, who are using its columns to spread the gospel of Appleton's supremacy as a trading center of Northeastern Wisconsin.

CALL ANOTHER ELECTION TO VOTE ON UNION SCHOOLS

Can't Improve Fourth District School Until Plan is Adopted

Three plans for bringing about a union system of schools are being considered by the board of education following the defeat of the city school proposal in the recent referendum. The board feels that the opinion of the city as a whole has not been discovered because of the light cast in the district referendum. The largest number of votes cast in the district was 184 in the First district. This means that only about a fifth of the voters of that district expressed an opinion on one of the most important problems before the city in many years. The board of education would feel justified, it is said, in calling another election after the first of the year.

VOTE AS A CITY
Another way of meeting the problem, it was explained, is to receive from the state legislature permission for the city to call an election, thereby making it possible for the city to vote as a unit, instead of making each district a unit. The question of constitutionality might be raised, but it is felt that the state has the real control over schools, and only delegates authority to the city. It is a question extremely important, it is said. The supreme courts have repeatedly ruled that the state has authority to regulate preparations for teachers, teachers' pensions, salaries, and the curriculum of the schools. Consequently, it is thought, that there is little doubt of the state's authority to deal with the school problem in Appleton.

No third alternative before the board is the consolidation of the first, second and third district schools, which would be in favor of the system, one district with a central management. This would not be conducive to unity and harmony in the city, it would at least bring about some centralization of organization.

CAN'T IMPROVE SCHOOL
Many problems confront Appleton if the present school system is retained. The present district principals probably will hesitate to continue in their positions with only six grades remaining in the ward schools. Then there is the matter of spending the $20,000 the city treasury for a Junior high school in the fourth ward. The school is district property and the city has no authority to spend money on a school which does not belong to it. As a consequence, it cannot improve the fourth district school until the school property is transferred to the city. The new Junior high schools were built by the city, and the city proper.

Ocean Covered Fox River Valley At Least Five Times

This Territory Under Water 1,800 Feet Deep, Dr. R. M. Bagge Says

Wisconsin is one of the few states having deposits of green sand or green sandstone formations, according to Prof. R. M. Bagge, head of the department of geology and mineralogy at Lawrence college here. This rare specimen exists hundreds of feet under the Fox river valley in the form of a green siltified green sandstone of about 20 feet in thickness, Prof. Bagge says.

If brought to the surface this formation would appear as a long narrow arching green band at the top of the Cambrian constituting only one division of the banded sand rock of the upper Cambrian formation.

Green sand had its beginning centuries ago when the earth was new as it relates to Wisconsin the green color of these rocks is due partly to protozoa of iron staining quartz grains but principally to the presence of glauconite grains of a uniformly dark green color, according to the geologist. This, he says, is a complex mixture of iron and potassium, but aluminum, magnesium, calcium and sodium are present in small but variable proportions.

As green sand in most states contains potash varying from 2 to 8 percent, green sand marls have been used as fertilizer, which has served to restore and maintain the fertility of the soil for many years, Prof. Bagge adds.

In a statement regarding Wisconsin green sand, Prof. Bagge includes an interesting sidelight of the early formation of the land of what is now Wisconsin. The state, he says, has been covered in part by the ocean no less than five times after the original land masses which formed the crust of the earth above the sea. Continuing this theory, he states that at first there were islands of varying sizes the largest near the center of the area now Wisconsin, while far to the north of the lifeless waters bathed the shores of the Canadian archipelago.

"It was during the second inundation when trilobites reigned as lords of the Cambrian seas that green sand deposits were laid toward the close of the period representing the top of a sandstone with a maximum thickness of a thousand feet," Prof. Bagge says.

"Much of this Cambrian sandstone is cross-bedded showing the action of the waves and off-shore currents in shallow waters, but the green sand horizon represents relatively deeper and more quiet deposition.

"If, as seems probably the case, the conditions of the formation of glauconite in the Cambrian were similar to those of today, then the ocean was from 1,000 to 1,500 feet over the Fox river valley.

"The earliest geological occurrence of green sand deposits of glauconite origin is in the Cambrian of Wisconsin and in Russia. While it is probably present in small amounts in many subsequent formations and at least in two others of Wisconsin and in Russia. While it is probably present in small amounts in many subsequent formations and at least in two others of Wisconsin and in Russia. While it is probably present in small amounts in many subsequent formations and at least in two others of Wisconsin and in Russia.

Shells of tiny mollusks are to be found extensively in green sands, the geologist says in concluding his statement. Another theory of the foundation period is the apparent presence of coral reefs, first developed in the "Silurian of Door county during the Niagara indicating the relative depth and purity of the early incoming warm waters whose temperatures never fall below 65 degrees Fahrenheit."

SEEK MEMBERS FOR STATE SOCIAL WORK CONFERENCE

Appleton Chamber of Commerce is helping to secure members for the Wisconsin Conference of Social work as a means of helping to finance the administrative work of the better cities contest. Local people who desire to enrol are invited to confer with the chamber of commerce.

The social conference is sponsoring the better cities contest and offering $1,500 in prizes. Considerable expense is entailed in sending speakers over the state and an increase in its membership will take care of these extra costs, it is said.

11 Santas Visit Homes In 3rd Ward

Good old St. Nicholas and ten of his helpers made their annual tour of the Third ward Friday evening, visiting home after home and distributing candy and nuts to the children as well as taking down the orders for Christmas presents.

There were three men and eight women in the Santa Claus party. Each was fully garbed in St. Nick attire. They traveled about in a Ford, stopping at a central point in each block and visiting the homes.

Santa himself would gather the children in a corner and write down their wishes on a big pad. Another carried a basket of goodies which were distributed. The others danced to music of harmonicas, horns or other instruments in the hands of their companions. Large numbers of children gathered to watch Santa Claus party go through with Christmas preliminaries.

During four years as a social worker at Ellis Island, one young woman, 24 years old, has acted as match-maker in more than 5000 marriages, it is said.

CHILD ACTORS REHEARSE FOR ANOTHER PLAYLET

"Why the Chimes Ring" is the name of the play that the Children's theatre of Appleton Womens club will present in the playhouse on Dec. 1 and 20. The Shannock troop of Girl Scouts will take part in the play. The Miss Doris Ewell, physical training instructor, will coach the dramatic parts of the production, and Miss Martha Chandler, head of the recreation department, will have charge of the staging.

This is the second of a series of entertainments that will be presented this season for the children of the city by the Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls, who sponsor the theatre. The play given a few weeks ago was "Snickerly Nick and the Giant."

APPLETON MAN WINS PLACE ON WEST POINT QUINT

Stew' Mills Picked For Cadet Squad

Stewart "Stew" Mills, Appleton high school product who last year played on the regular Lawrence basketball team, has won a place on the West Point Military academy five this year. The Appleton man is a son of Dr. and Mrs. M. T. Mills, 765 Lawrence.

Mills is an all around athlete. He graduated from Appleton high school in 1922, after starring on the Orange unit for four years, and on entering Lawrence had little difficulty in placing on the regular five there as soon as the Midwest conference basketballing permitted him to play. When the bar was lifted in February, 1923, he played in most of the games on the Blue schedule and made an excellent showing at forward.

This is Mills' first year at the United States Military academy, having on his appointment there last summer. He will play at forward with the Cadets. So far, Appleton Mills is the first Appleton man in history to make the West Point five.

Fond du Lac Expects 1,200 Kegling Teams At State Tournament

Inrush of Entries Indicates Greatest Gathering of Wisconsin Bowlers in History.

Fond du Lac—Great preparations are being made for the coming state tournament of the Wisconsin bowlers which will be held in this city from Jan. 21 to Feb. 25, 1925, and indications point to the greatest ever in the way of state tournaments. More than 600 teams will be entered from this city and the huge entry from outside of Fond du Lac will establish a record entry without any doubt, which will please the state bowlers as they always look forward to a record tournament with a huge entry in their home state.

Major Malke of the association of commerce will canvas the city during the present week and expects to line up fully 600 teams before the holidays so that the entries of the home city will be tucked away and all set before the big rush comes from outside. Many reservations have been made early in the year to fill up the tournament with teams from La Crosse to the big lake and from Superior to Lake Geneva. Fond du Lac will show the state bowlers what a big city can do to build up a big entry and will provide plenty of pep and bowling during the early stages of the tournament when the local pin toppers take the drives.

INSTALL NEW ALLEYS

Ten new drives were installed last summer to accommodate this tournament, which probably will run well over 1,200 teams, and the alleys have been placed in the greatest building that has ever housed a state tournament. With a 30-foot ceiling and room for more than 600 spectators, as well as accommodations for checkrooms, lockers and refreshment parlors it looks as though the Wisconsin bowlers were in for a big treat this year when they stroll into the Sander Brothers' drive on Madison.

Secretary Fenske will remain at his Milwaukee headquarters at 175 Second to accept entries and every bowling team in Wisconsin should communicate with him without delay to secure reservations. One other good feature this year will be the excellent hotel service in the new 10-story hotel, the Belfair, located only one block from the drives so there is no worry in taking care of the visitors.

Cut under the fire with your reservations and do not wait until the last minute as there is most assuredly going to be a rush at the last moment.

APPLETON HIGH CAGERS BATTLE FOR CLASS TITLE

School Tournament Precedes Opening of Regular Training in Basketball

Appleton high school cagers Monday afternoon were due to open their interclass basketball tournament, after ten days of intensive drill under the direction of three regulars and Assistant Coach Guy Barlow. Jule Kavin, physical director, had a watchful eye on the workmen looking for material for his regular squad, and will continue to watch closely throughout the tourney.

Several of last year's regulars who have been out for football until two weeks ago, now are concentrating their efforts on basketball. Courtney, Hieble and Frazer head the list. This trio has been coaching the class squads for the tourney which starts Monday. Judging from workouts on the practice court, the Juniors have the best chance of winning the tournament, but their advantage is slight and no team will be able to loaf.

This will be Kevin's first year here as basketball coach. He was one of last year's stars on the LaCrosse normal quintet. The greatest stress will be laid on short passing this year, and also on good form in shooting. Kevin believes in uniform and standard work and is well satisfied with the material at hand.

The men who plan to turn out are big and fast, with plenty of pep. Their chief ambition this season will be to beat Fond du Lac.

JESSE JAMES may have had certain distinct moral drawbacks but he never charged six-bits for a wicked cyanide cream at a football game.

Statistics at hand show that no fewer than 6,425,775 headline writers throughout the country referred to it as a "Turkey Day Game."

A Quarterback in Ohio had to run 143 yards to score a touchdown. What the game needs is better street car service.

Pennant Plays In Basketball

By Coach H. B. Ortnor Cornell, Eastern Champions OUT-OF-BOUND PLAY

This play is always made under your own basket.

Number five takes the ball out. Players one, two, three and four line up across the court at about the end of the foul lane circle.

Two fast and clever men, preferably the forwards, if they are available, are used to cut into the basket, while one and three, preferably the guards, cut out to the side.

Just at the time the two forwards are behind number two and four's opponents they cut behind them and receive the pass from number five.

A bounce pass often works very well, as it enables the players outline in to put on speed or show up if necessary.

Number five swings out to the side on which he passed, for turn pass in case the play is not properly timed. The timing is the important part of this play but with enough practice and the players working together it can be successfully executed a large percentage of the time.

In case the play is not able to go through as planned, the ball should be passed to numbers one or three, who have cut to the side of the court. This prevents the ball from being forfeited to the opponents for taking more than the five seconds on out-of-bound play.

TWO LAWRENTIANS NAMED BY COACHES ON MIDWEST SQUAD

Cornell Wins Three Places, Beloit One, and Ripon Falls to Place

Galesburg, Ill.—A mythical all-Midwest football team selected by coaches of the client and compiled by the Association of Midwest Teachers of Journalism, was announced here Saturday by John M. Baker, secretary of the association.

Coaches A. C. Denney, Lawrence, C. O. Dooling, Ripon, C. J. Hunt, Carleton, E. J. Osgood, Beloit; Glenn Smith, Monmouth; "Polly" Wallace, Cornell, and John Van Liew, Knox, were among those who made the selection.

Six colleges made the first team. Cornell of Mount Vernon, Ill., won three berths, and Lawrence of Appleton, Wis., and Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Knox of Galesburg received two berths each. Carleton of Northfield, Minn., and Beloit one each.

The first team follows: L. E. Admanson, Cornell; L. T. Olson, Beloit; L. G. Gillespie, Cox, C. Hardie, Knox, R. G. Connell, Lawrence; R. T. Reed, Cornell; R. C. Sheldon, Cox, Q. B. Kotla, Lawrence; L. H. B. Nordley, Carleton; R. H. B. Dean, Cornell; P. B. Senn, Knox.

On the second team Ripon won three positions, Beloit two and Cox, Carleton and Knox and Monmouth, of Monmouth Ill. one each.

BETTING FAVORS TOMMY GIBBONS OVER NORFOLK

New York — Tommy Gibbons and Kid Norfolk with their training finished have nothing further to do but sit back and await the going which will bring them together Tuesday night in Madison Square garden. Both profess to be in the best condition. Gibbons reigns a 2 to 1 favorite.

In point of measurements both fighters are about equal. Gibbons, who stands a foot, has a 33 inch waistline in height but Norfolk has a four inch greater arm reach. Their measurements in other respects practically correspond.

The sale of tickets has been slow.

Campion High Quint Seeks National Fame

Prairie du Chien—Wisconsin has a high school that is seeking national honors on the basketball floor this season. Sponsored by the Rev. E. C. Holton, S. J., Campion high school here, with a record of 12 games won and 2 lost last season, enters the basketball season with a heavy schedule of games in a number of states.

The roster of players for this ambitious team comprises youths from every section of the United States. Negotiations are pending for games with St. Ignace and DePaul in Chicago. Contests are assured with St. Ambrose, Mason City, Prairie, Marquette, Marquette, Dubuque and Patch Grove high schools in Iowa. Besides a number of Wisconsin schools.

Forty five men have answered the basketball call at Campion high. They include the flashy Porter, late of Creighton high school, Omaha, which lost to Spaulding Institute in the national Catholic tournament held last year, out for guard position; Waltraff of Mankato, Minn., aspirant for the other guard position; DuCharme, former star at Prairie high school, and Martineau, Oconto, Wis., for center; Black and Captain Kominakia, forwards.

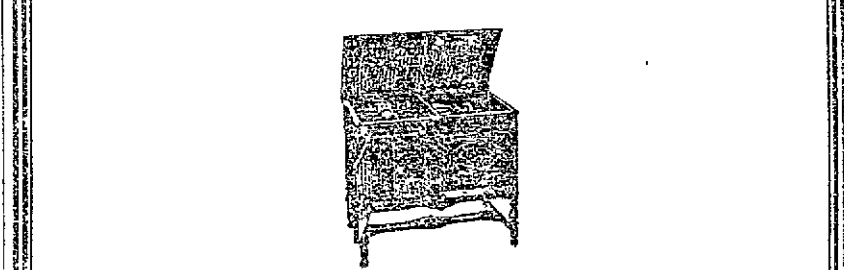

Others seeking places on the team are Newkirk, Akron, O.; Epperman, Naperville, Ill.; forwards; Harker, Chicago; Schneider, St. Louis, center; Murray, St. Charles, Ill.; Petrucci, Carlisle, Ill.; Gallardo, Mexico City, Mexico; and Berghoff, center.

WEEDS STILL UNCUT AND MAILMEN FEAR DRIFTS

Rural mail carriers are worried over the prospects of snow bound roads which may result from the failure to cut down weeds and brush along some of the rural highways. What labor is saved at this time will be paid for many times over by the work of snow removal in the winter, it was pointed out, unless the roads are cleared at this time of all barriers that cause snow drifts.

aukauna Battler Rematched With Rising Star He Fought in Armory C

DEC. 18 CARD

Billy Bortfield vs. Red Blanchard. White vs. Jack Walsh.

Battling Herb vs. Charlie Paychel. Battling Beck vs. Washe Henrich.

Fond du Lac—With preliminary arrangements already started, there is very indication that Fond du Lac will witness an all-star fight program at the Armory C on Dec. 18.

Billy Bortfield, although he has not signed a contract, has agreed to runkhorst's terms providing a suitable opponent can be found. Negotiations have been started with Red Blanchard and it is very likely that he bout will be closed before night.

Young White of Oshkosh has promised to sign a contract and it is very likely that he will meet Jack Walsh of Milwaukee.

Battling Herb, who has appeared on so numerous occasions, may meet Walter Grayjack or Charlie Raychel.

An attempt will also be made to rematch Battling Beck of this city and Washe Hendricks. Both of these men fought to a draw in Appleton recently.

NEENAH GUARDS MEET PLYMOUTH

Neenah—Plymouth all-star basketball team will be the next to appear at the local armory. Manager Dan Jardt, of the Co. I team, completed arrangements to bring them to Neenah for a game with his squad Thursday evening, Dec. 11. Such stars as Gehles, Elliot, Steffas, White and the "Ph" brothers are appearing with the Plymouth squad this season.

One of the strongest aggregations in the state are fighting the ushey team, Appleton, and New London teams, the latter having jaden. Neenah's star, in its lineup the time it was defeated. Preceding this game, as a curtain raiser, the Neenah and Menasha schools will meet.

SIX-DAY BICYCLE RACE PROMISES LARGE PURSE

New York — Prizes for the teams participating in the annual six-day bicycle race at Madison Square garden high ended Saturday night will be awarded at the garden Monday and each entry is expected to receive a substantial amount as the crowds are the largest in the history of the event here.

Reggie McNamara and his team, the Van Kempen of Holland, who won the race in the final hour, are Bobby Wathour, Jr., and Frank Georgetti, the youngest pair entered, declared Monday that it was the most rigid test of stamina they had ever undergone. This was McNamara's third win in the six-day trials.

Dempsey Is Spoofing In Retirement Talk

New York—The hint that Jack Dempsey will retire within the next year without again donning the gloves is not taken seriously either by the experts or his intimate friends. Dempsey is too good a business man to deliberately throw away $250,000. It is almost a cinch that he would get that much for stopping into a ring with a worthy opponent.

Dempsey's intimation that he would like to share with Jack McAuliffe the honor of being an unbeaten champion sounds very pretty, but doesn't mean anything. When McAuliffe retired the promoters were not handing out fabulous prices.

Most all the champions prattle about retiring undefeated. Jim Jeffries retired but came back to take in a purse of $101,000 and a terrible lashing from Jack Johnson.

Johnny Kilbane talked of retiring

Husband Is Enigma You Can't Solve

BY CYNTHIA GREY

Don't envy the woman with a career. There's not one of them who wouldn't gladly change her typewriter for your baby buggy or her law office for your kitchenette.

The only contented husband is the one who's in love. Make sure that it's you that your husband stays in love with.

Really all you need to do to be a successful wife is to smile like Mary Pickford, cook like Mrs. Rorer, save like Hettie Green, bring up the children like Mme. Montessori, make your own clothes like Lady Duff Gordon, wear them like Gloria Swanson and kiss like Nita Naldi.

Keep yourself young and attractive. No husband can quarrel with a woman in a frilly apron and just the right touch of rose-color on either cheek.

To please a husband is like halting yourself on a tight-rope. Henry VIII divorced Ann of Cleves because she was too homely and beheaded Ann Boleyn because she was too beautiful.

QUESTIONS—ANSWERS
Miss Grey: I try to always tell the truth to people. I lately I have got into trouble by doing so. Why is it that people can't stand to hear the truth about themselves?

AGNES.
There's nothing finer in the world than to hear people tell the truth, but not to the point of hurting others. There is such a thing as a silence that is more kindly and more moral as the unpleasant truth about people.

Dear Miss Grey: Somehow or other I am not popular with my men friends. I know I am pretty, and I have nice clothes, but all the girls in my set have more invitations than I. What can I do to become more popular?
G. S. C.

Have you tried being interesting? Do you make it a point to talk well? The type of girl all men prefer, really, is the one who is good fun and good company.

Miss Grey: Is very hot water or extremely cold water best for the face?
BESSIE.

Neither. Tepid water about the same temperature as the skin itself is best, followed by a dash of cool rinse water.

DREAMS Each Has Its Own Meaning

Loss of jewels, especially a necklace, is a warning that unhappiness will come into the life of the dreamer unless he or she changes their manner of living.

Separation for married couples has often followed such a dream, according to the records gathered by those interested in a scientific study of visions.

INTERPRETATIONS
You who dream of walking through an art gallery will suffer little from perplexing problems.

To see yourself being handed an empty box means that much of present financial holdings may be taken away unless careful.

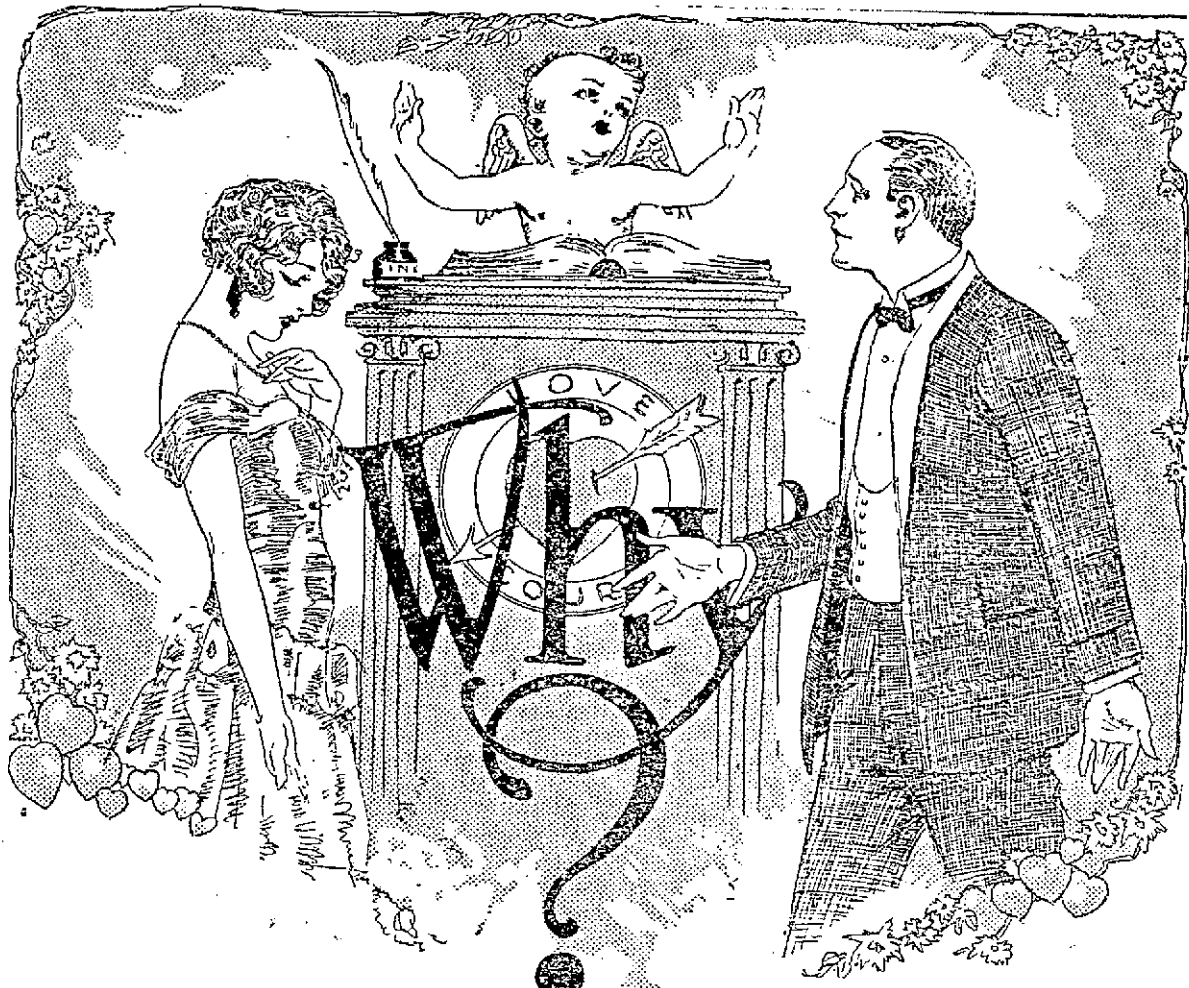

To be in attendance at a social affair, and find yourself using a pattered and torn fan destined you for a serious awakening because of jealousy toward a friend.

This may mean that you will lose a sweetheart or suffer greatly by being rebuffed for your selfishness.

INTERPRETATIONS
Great excitement will enter your life if you see yourself following the fire engines to a fire.

You will be successful in a business adventure if in your visions you are climbing a rope.

Love Cannot Be Commanded, Affinity Question Fixed

BY EDNA PURDY WALSH

Love cannot be commanded! Every disappointed lover realizes that fact, and nearly every one has asked a sorrowful "Why?" The old analogy of oil and water is exactly paralleled in the experience of many couples.

The answer is not in common or diverse mental interests, in voice, habits, clothes, disposition. A personal striving by one party to make himself or herself magnetically attractive to the other is often fated to fulfill from the beginning.

It takes courage to look such a situation squarely in the face, but one may do it and face the exact facts. Nature's laws for mating are based on the chemistry of your being and on the types in which everyone is classified. People in general are of five types. They are bony, ligamentous, muscular, vital and mental.

Study reveals that individuals of some types are almost absolutely barred from happiness if mated to those of certain other types.

If an individual develops a fondness or an admiration for one of an unpaired type, it is almost impossible for the other to return the sentiment.

And it should be cause for thankfulness, not for repining. Don't blame him for loving you, and don't blame him for not loving you. The question of affinity is fixed almost beyond argument.

Love has been put into the chemist's test tube, also, and that reveals still deeper affinities and repulsions. The vital, complex, scheming body of you in its entirety is no different from the thickest cell of your body and mind. You are you because that single small cell is what it is.

Suppose now a single cell of you is placed in the test tube. Into this tube place a single cell of the one you want to love you.

The two can be shaken together and they will tumble around in the same corner of the tube. But they remain separate.

They have no chemical affinity. There's no hope of happiness together for those two individuals.

This talk of chemistry is not an analogy. It is the literal truth. The predominate elements in your united physical, mental and spiritual being determine your personality and your affinities.

The desire or the will cannot violate this chemical inclination without causing unhappiness.

Modern Mother Plays Role Of Chum Nowadays

BY CYNTHIA GREY

Not so many years ago a woman was old when she was forty.

There was nothing ahead of her but spectacles, black silk dresses and the rearing of her grandchildren.

But this is not so any more! Whatever may be said for or against the mad, breathless age we live in, it is the best time for middle-aged women that this world has ever seen.

For the middle-aged woman today is not middle-aged at all. She is still young.

She has read the beauty hints as well as the chaff-cakes recipes on the woman's page. And she has worked hard to keep her complexion and her slim figure.

What has happened is that the woman of forty has decided to be beautiful, to remain beautiful.

It used to be considered a sin to use cold cream and face powder. The woman who did was not "nice."

Providence traced the lines and wrinkles on a woman's face; and she didn't lift a finger, much less an electric vibrator, to stop them!

Today every neighborhood has its beauty shop as well as its corner grocery.

It isn't considered wicked any more to look as rosy and pretty and deep as possible. It isn't even necessary to look your age any more. In fact, it's quite important not to do that very thing!

So that forty finds a woman eager and ready to do the things she couldn't do while she wore a path between the cool-stove and the crib when her family was growing up. And she looks the part!

"It's such fun to shop now," a woman friend told me. "My daughter and I always go together, and we wear about the same kind of hats and dresses. My clothes are just as gay and giddy as hers. And we usually wind up by going to the hair-bere to have our hair trimmed."

There's your modern mother for you! She's her daughter's chum. And if there are any dangers in the dance palace, mother knows all about them. For she's out learning the Chinese toddle with dad.

And she's perfectly equipped to show daughter the difference between a real man and the finale-hopper with whom daughter finds herself in love! For she knows both kinds.

Mother working eternally at patch, work quilts and pumpkin pies in the old homestead makes a beautiful picture, but wasn't it awfully hard on Mother—especially when everyone else was out doing interesting things? It's far more pleasant to think that she's come out of the kitchen and is doing an interesting thing, or two herself, isn't it?

The woman of forty—or forty-five—is like a November rose. She looks quite as fresh as a June rose, but she's had the experience of summer.

Household Suggestions

MAKE NEW HEMS

When a tablecloth begins to show signs of wear cut an inch off the long side and another from the short side and make new hems there. This will cause all the creases to come in new places and will prolong the life of the cloth.

DON'T SOAP TOPS

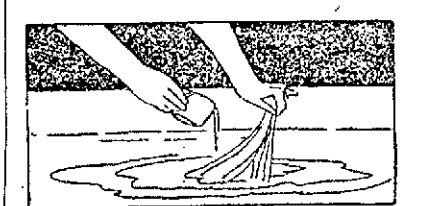

It is permissible to rub soap on the feet of stockings while washing them but you should not do so with the tops.

GETS MORE WEAR

It is better to stretch knitted silk underwear into shape than to iron it if you wish to get the most possible wear from the garment.

ADD TAN DYE

Add a very little tan dye to the last rinsing water in which you wash your light stockings and they will not get faded looking.

LIFT UP COVER

Adventures Of The Twins

A CROOKED RIDDLE

"Will everybody please be quiet now," said the Riddle Lady. "It's time for another riddle."

Nancy, who had won the prize just before that, and was showing it around to Bo Peep and Contrary Mary and Margery Daw, all of whom admired it like everything, suddenly stopped talking.

And so did Nick and Jack and Tom Tucker and Peter Peter and every-body.

Really you could have heard a pin drop almost. Even the Old-Shoe Woman's children were quiet for the first time in six months, as their mother said afterwards.

The reason was very plain. No-body wanted to miss a word of the riddle and when there is a riddle being asked it is important to get quite all of it.

The Riddle Lady began:

"There is a crooked person. Who hasn't any style. But he is so obliging.

You will find it worth your while. To have this crooked gentleman. A guest within your house. Thought as for size he isn't Any bigger than a mouse.

"He'll stay down in your kitchen. Among your spoons and forks. For cook says that he's wonderful. At excavating corks. He's not a pushing person. But as for pull—my-my!

The Tangle

FROM THE DRAMATIC PAGE OF "THE MORNING ARGOSY"

Last night at the Iroquois Hotel before a brilliant assemblage of guests, Mr. Richard Summers and Miss Beatrice Grimshaw were married.

Rarely have there been seen as many flowers at a social function as at this wedding. The whole wall behind the improvised altar being hung with a canopy of La France roses, the bride's favorite flower. This was done at the request of Miss Paula Ferrier, the brilliant, young moving picture star, who has many friends in the city. Miss Ferrier, on the arm of Mr. John Alden Prescott, made one of the party following the bride.

The best man and matron of honor were Mr. Sydney Carton and Mrs. Sally Atherton.

A congratulatory telegram was received from Mrs. Prescott, whose father shows a slight improvement.

The bride was very charming in the maid-of-honor costume that she had worn three years before at Mrs. Prescott's wedding. Mrs. Sally Atherton, a recent widow, was gowned in orchid chiffon, and Miss Ferrier was radiant in cell blue chiffon heavily embroidered in pearl beads.

The corridors of the Iroquois were filled all the evening with a curious crowd, hoping to see the famous moving picture star, but no one of the party made an appearance down stairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Summers will accompany Miss Ferrier back to New York today, where, after a gay week or two with friends, they will start on their trip across the continent to Hollywood, where Mr. Summers has bought a beautiful home in the foothills.

Telegram From Leslie Prescott to Mrs. Richard Summers.

"You cannot tell, dear, how sorry I was that we could not carry through our arrangements for your wedding."

"I know it was very beautiful from the wire which was sent me by Sydney Carton. He says you looked very happy, and that Dick had the beautiful cast of countenance of the cat who has eaten the canary. Dad is a little better and some hopes are held out for his recovery. Sorry I will not see you before you leave for the west. Remember you have all my love and good wishes for your happiness."

LESLIE.

Telegram From Leslie Prescott to Sydney Carton.

"Thank you so much for wiring me about Dick's wedding. Otherwise I should have known very little about it. My father is a shade better, but the crisis has not been passed yet. Knowing all that you do you will not expect to see me before you leave for home. Will you wire me if the baby is all right. Did Paula Ferrier see him when she was there?"

Have written both to you and to my friend, Sally Atherton. Have not heard from Ruth and did not see her name among the guests, so expect she has gone to New York to meet Walter Burke. That was the reason I could not get hold of her when I left. Will you please send me her New York address if possible? You can get it at the shop. Thanking you
LESLIE.

TOMORROW: Letter from Leslie Prescott to Ruth Ellington.

He'll get the gondies out for you. And doesn't even try."

"I know! I know!" cried the Tan-O'Clock Scholar. "Even if I don't get to school on time, I know a thing or two. 'It's a corker!'"

"That's right," smiled the Riddle Lady. "Here is an alarm clock for your prize. I always said that it wasn't your fault that you were late for school. But it will be after this. Will be ready for another riddle?"

Psychic Color Theory Brings Her A Spouse

Fannie Haynes Martin, in The Los Angeles Times.

The study of color and the love of adventure took Orceila Rexford of Los Angeles to Alaska. Her color research work resulted in her forming some remarkable theories in connection with the aurora borealis, popularly known as northern lights and frequently visited in the arctic regions. And besides having thrilling adventures Miss Rexford found fortune and a husband in the arctic.

She is now Mrs. Gayne V. Gregory, wife of a prominent and wealthy dentist of Anchorage, Alaska. It was while making her color tests with the rays of the aurora borealis that she met Dr. Gregory. Having made a study of color vibration and given lectures on the subject she interested the skeptical young doctor

"Why, they yelled too," said Mrs. Spratt. "I both saw and heard them."

"Oh, that's different," said Mrs. Goosie in a relieved voice. "Sh! The Riddle Lady is beginning again."

"This is an easy one," said the Riddle Lady. "And very short!"

"Pata-cake, pata-cake, Baker man. What can it be that he bakes in a pan?"

As round as a dollar, as flat as a plate. My dears, it's the very thing Jack Horner ate.

"Each year on Thanksgiving, of pumpkin it's made. On Christmas of mince-meat of very best grade.

On Easter of custard, for then eggs are plenty. Now see who can guess this before I count twenty."

"I know," cried Jack Horner. "It's a pie."

"I was hoping you would guess it," declared the Riddle Lady. "The prize is a fork. Now please don't use your thumb any more. It isn't a bit nice."

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

APPLETON NURSES FORM SOCIETY TO KNOW EACH OTHER

Organization Is Formed at Meeting in Womens Club Saturday Evening

A meeting of the graduate nurses of Appleton was held Saturday evening in the Appleton Womens club at which about 13 nurses were present. Miss Mary O'Brien, school nurse, was in charge of the meeting, which was called to organize the nurses of Appleton into a group so that social and civic activities might be carried out as a measure of success. Up to this time there has been no effort among Appleton nurses, and whatever work was to be accomplished had to be attempted by individual nurses. The organization will be mainly social at first, with meetings the first Saturday in each month, until the nurses have grown to know each other and have really banded together.

Mrs. Lucy Younger was elected president of the organization, and Mrs. E. P. DeLong is secretary. Miss Lucy Helen Pearson, director of the Womens club, talked to the nurses on her experiences with the nursing profession in Chicago. She also talked about Clavibus. A social hour followed the business.

POLICE AVERAGE AN ARREST A DAY DURING NOVEMBER

en Speeders Taken Into Custody During Month, Report Shows

An average of one arrest every day is made by the Appleton police department in November, it is stated in the monthly report submitted by Chief George T. Prim to the Appleton city and police commission.

Speeders constituted one-third of the month's arrests, while drunkenness was the cause of three arrests. Other were: Larceny 3, taking an automobile without owner's consent 1, assault and battery 3, breaking through rear windshield 5, driving an automobile without a license 1, driving while intoxicated 1, passing worthless checks 1, threatening to kill 1, violating arterial highway ordinance 1, one of the persons arrested were given from justice. The ambulance made eight trips and the patrol made 121 trips.

That the fire and police commission not a collection when it referred to a bill presented by a local merchant demanding payment from a member of one of the two departments. When the member refused to pay the bill, the commission informed the merchant that it was without authority to act until the validity of the debt was proven.

It was decided to keep the motorcycle officer on motorcycle duty just long as weather conditions permit.

STAGE AND SCREEN

HER LOVE STORY

Gloria Swanson, in her latest Paramount picture, "Her Love Story," which opened at the Appleton Theatre Sunday night, furnishes ample evidence that Kipling knew what he was talking about when he said: "The Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady are sisters under the skin." Only in Gloria's case it isn't a Colonel's lady but a Queen who shows us that under the thin veneer of royalty she is just a woman.

It may be somewhat of a shock to a good many ordinary folks to learn life isn't all a bed of roses even to a Queen. Of course, she lives in a beautiful palace, she wears stunning clothes worth a king's ransom, she is surrounded by numerous servants who are ready to fulfill her slightest wish, but all these material luxuries mean nothing when she is separated from the one she loves.

ROBERT W. CHAMBERS STORY MAKES GREAT FILM PRODUCTION

"Between Friends" is Intense Photodrama With Novel Twists
"Between Friends," which will be shown at the New Bijou Theatre on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday with Lou Tellegen, Norman Kerry, Alice Calhoun and Anna Q. Nilsson in the principal roles, comes from the pen of Robert W. Chambers, who is one of America's most admired and prolific writers of fiction and has contributed much to its literary standing in all its phases—novels, short stories and the screen.

In "Between Friends," Mr. Chambers has written a story of unusual interest in which suspense rules to the final scene. His leading character, played by Lou Tellegen, turned bitter against all women through the unfaithfulness of one, is made by Chambers to find his revenge plan too terrible to carry to a conclusion, and the means of accomplishing this furnishes a theme such as might be expected of one so versatile as Chambers.

The crowning achievement of Barbara La Marr's career as a star of the silver screen is her portrayal of "Sandra" in the film of the same name, pictured for First National. Presented in this picture for the first time as a star in her own right, Miss La Marr reveals qualities of emotional acting heretofore unsuspected. The role of "Sandra," presenting a woman of dual personality, is one of the biggest and most interesting parts yet conceived for screen portrayal.

A woman of two natures, a conflict between the contented and home-loving personality and the other nature, which craves excitement, adventure and romance, "Sandra" depicts the struggle which is going on in the minds and hearts of thousands of women in all parts of the world.

Miss La Marr has given her portrayal a perfect understanding and sympathy, keeping always distinct the two characters embodied in the one woman. Her depiction of Rusty is emphasized by the impetuous, queenly and dramatic manner in which she registers the role of "Sandra," always seeking something new and never quite finding it.

Her superb acting in this difficult portrayal is well matched by the work of Bert Lytell, Leslie Austin, Leon Gordon, Flora Finch, Lella Hyams, Edgar Nelson, Maude Hill and Austin Sweeney in this production.

MARCELLING done in your own home, by graduate operator. Phone 1689. Miss Ethel Hemmingsen.

TAX COLLECTION STARTS EARLIER

Tax collection period in the city hall is expected to open at least a week earlier than last year owing to the earlier start that could be made on the preparation of tax records in the city clerk's and treasurer's offices.

Because the county board of supervisors met two weeks earlier than last year it was able to complete its work much earlier and therefore the city received its apportionment of county and state taxes at an earlier date. The city tax levy was not made until Dec. 5 a year ago but this year's levy was made ten days earlier. This means that the tax collection period probably will open about a week before New Year's day.

AMATEUR ACTORS PLAN TO INVADE THEATERS

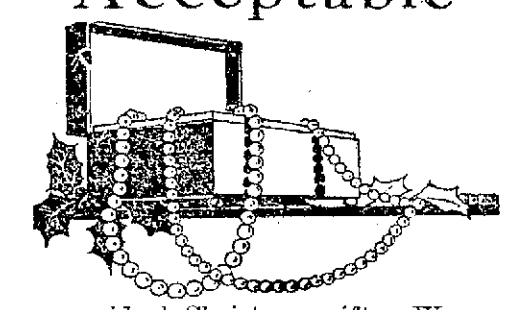

By Associated Press
London—London's 20,000 amateur actors will try this winter to get into the professional class. The 200 societies to which the amateurs belong have banded together and rented a West end theatre where they will stage the best they can produce. They will open the "season" about the first week in November with a gala performance organized by many different societies. Afterwards the societies will each take over the theatre for a week and, should any of the productions prove popular, arrangements will be made to produce them at another theatre.

A "chemical sponge" that absorbs food odors and gases in refrigerators and pantries is a new invention.
